House and SenateExtend Good Wishes
To King and Power

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—(CP)—The Commons put aside its political differences for a brief hour yesterday to pay warmly-felt tributes to two of its members—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. C. G. (Chubby) Power (L.- Quebec South).

Credulous Mail Carrier Out Cash

BUFFALO, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Police disclosed yesterday that Miss Ima Swartzman, 50, has been swindled out of $1,000 by a man who is observing the 30th anniversary of his entry into the chamber. His entry date of each satirist basket was Feb. 23, 1916. Mr. King and 30 for Mr. Power—and at Mr. King's place was a remarkable collection of signatures of the 126 Liberal members and a testament of their good wishes and congratulations.

Mr. King before entering the chamber to a heavy round of applause from both sides of the House received a deal of abuse from his cabinet colleagues bearing an inscription extending their "united respects" to the two men affected and our most devout wishes for many more years of health and happiness," he said.

In the Senate, Senator Wishard Robertson, government leader, expressed the Senate's congratulations to the Prime Minister "and our satisfaction that he retains his good health and spirits."

SENATOR JOHN D. DEPALMA, Progressive Conservative leader, said that although "this side of the House" might not agree with all Mr. King's policies, he could not help it had given "his earnest attention to the welfare of the Canadian people." He wished the Prime Minister "good luck, long life and happiness."

In the Commons, Mr. Power, in response to a question, said he had been in Commons and said he would like upon his retirement to write a book about it and its spirit of freedom, democracy and civility.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, said he wished to pay "deserving tribute" to two men who had given a large portion of their lives to the service of their country.

M. J. COLDWELL, CCP leader, said his group was "delighted" to also be represented in the House by Mr. King and Mr. Power. Mr. Low said that such occasions gave him pleasure because he knew that they possessed kindness and added that he wondered how Mr. King kept up his vitality. He said a number of people in the country had been saying they were going to "throw Mackenzie King out" but he was still in office.

Tracking Down Insider Profits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(CP)—In a move to curb government "insiders" who speculated in the grain markets, the senate appropriated a sweeping subpoena on Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson calling for his records on commodity trading.

Anderson told reporters he would appear before the committee to answer the subpoenas directed. But he declined to disclose in advance whether he will appear or not.

The subpoena was served on Anderson because his department supervises the exchange which is presided over by the names of traders.

J. M. McElroy, director of the agriculture department's commodity exchange authority—the successor to the former Commodity Commission—said, the information asked by the committee covered billions of transactions in future.

He said it would be necessary for the department to go through the books of more than 600 commodity dealers to get all the information. He added that he does not believe it necessary to provide the committee with all the information asked by the committee in order to show what "the public wants."

And that is why whether government insiders have profited in commodity transactions, he said.

And The Wishbone Was Returned

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Four-year-old Julie Anne Alloro was the proudest girl in Brooklyn yesterday.

From Buckingham Palace, she received the wishbone of a turkey she and the Queen Elizabeth as wedding gifts.

And in addition she had a letter expressing her gratitude for the 10-pound turkey.

Common Pilchard Now Very Scarce

VANCOUVER, Dec. 18.—(CP)—Fisheries experts from British Columbia to California are looking for the pilchard, the tiny fish of where the once common pilchard has gone.

The 1946 catch was more than 100,000,000 pounds below that of 1944 and indications are that the catch next year will be much the same again.

Experts do not think that the pilchard has gone forever. There are other fish that have disappeared since 1933—when about 8,000,000 pounds were caught.

The supply of pilchard were formerly made off the California coast but this season, the worst in 15 years, only five per cent of a godyear's catch has been made.

British BeautyShip Stands By Rudderless Tug

SEATTLE, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The U.S. navy's newest ship, the 300-ton El Caney, was named after the village west of Adak, Alaska, and the navy salvage vessel Balister was expected to stand by the craft around midnight, near the Seattle port of embarkation reported.

The army cargo boat S-240, which had stuck in the Amakiriwa Islands in the same storm that battered the El Caney, freed free and edged into the shelter of an island to await the arrival of the navy fleet tug Teketa.

There were 42 aboard the El Caney when it ran aground on Oct. 23. One crew member, Lt. George S. Seattie and Portion, radioed that the crew was "well." He said the seas and weather were moderate.

The Balister was to take the El Caney in tow.

Toronto Broker Held in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Albert Edward Depalma of Toronto, 36, was held in custody on $30,000 bail yesterday for a hearing Friday on a federal indictment concerning his conduct as Cleveland, Ohio, chargeman of the mail in a mail fraud, violation of the Espionage Act and conspiracy.

John Canadian, special counsel to the Service and Exchange Commission, said at the arraignment yesterday that Depalma was one of the principal mail robbers in the country.

He said that since 1941 Depalma sold $1,000,000 worth of securities making a personal profit of about $100,000.

If convicted under the 14-count indictment, Depalma said he would face possible imprisonment for 10 years and fines aggregating $100,000.

He was arrested yesterday shortly after he arrived from Canada.

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—(CP)—Albert E. Depalma, Toronto mining magnate, distanced arrested here yesterday in New York on a fraud charge, launched a $100,000 libel suit here Oct. 18, 1945, against the Canadian Press.

Supreme Court officials said yesterday that their trial date was set for Jan. 10. A third holds a faint hope that he might be lost at sea in 1946.

Possible identification followed publication of a London document which described him as a sailor, who said he was called "Lucky" and who made reference to Vancouver.

He may be either "Lucky" Sauer "Lucky" Wilson, or the lost son of Mrs. Jean Cunningham.

Depalma believes the description published fits his son reported killed when the S.S. Marquette was torpedoed in October, 1945.

Depalma claimed a Collier's article entitled "Swindlers' Paradise" in the magazine's issue of July 21, 1945, was defamatory.

More Care at Crossings

Most Edmonton people will warmly commend the verdict of that coroner's jury which, sitting in connection with the death of an aged man hit by a street car on Jasper avenue, December 7th, urged that more care should be exercised by street car operators while crossing intersections.

It could not be said, by any stretch of the imagination, that the operators of cars and buses, as a class, are incompetent. Nor could it be said that they, as a class, are careless.

But trouble arises, as passengers can testify, from the growing habit of conversational friends and acquaintances loitering in the front lobbies of these vehicles while the cars or buses are in operation.

All too frequently the drivers of street cars and buses are engaged in close conversation by these visitors even at the most difficult points in traffic.

It is reasonable to suppose that the mechanical side of operating a street car or bus can be carried on while the attention of the operator is elsewhere. Every motor car driver knows that. But in an emergency or sudden crisis no man, however expert, can respond quickly enough unless his mind is directly and exclusively on the job.

Officials of the transit system would do well to forbid passengers holding conversation with the drivers of its vehicles except on matters having immediately to do with the operation of the car or bus.

This would help to carry out the recommendation of this coroner's jury and secure more care at intersections.

Emphasis on Production

The one way to restore our exchange with the United States and to keep it in balance in future is to increase our export of goods to that country—and to countries which have a favorable balance against the United States which they can transfer to Canada's account. That would seem to be elementary.

We have tried other methods, exclusive tariffs against United States goods, and recently embargoes. Neither has worked well. Canada never saw prosperous conditions under an exclusive tariff. Embargoes can obviously be only temporary expedients.

That the Canadian people would go counter to the whole trend of world thinking and sanction Haman's gallows tariff walls about the Dominion is too fantastic for anybody to imagine. Even the leader of the Conservative party is not betting anything on that. He says he is "in general" favorable to the Geneva tariff-reducing agreements.

This being the case, one hope to equalize our trade with the United States is to ship approximately as much to that country as we import from it.

This is the positive and constructive approach to the problem. It was emphasized in Parliament the other day by Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, who said the policy of the Government is to "boost Canada's exports to the United States". This in order to "permanently correct" the "chronic" adverse trade balance.

He cited some reasons why Canada is in position to do this. Industrial development in wartime created facilities for producing some two hundred items which were not produced here in pre-war years. It also enlarged the facilities to turn out other industrial products, on a scale immensely greater than in pre-war times. And the new trade agreements reduce from 30 to 50 per cent the tariff on 60 per cent of the products which Canada sends to the United States.

Canadian industry is thus faced with a challenge to get clear of the hermit idea and to move into world markets as it has never done before—including the market in the United States. Canadian agriculture will also benefit from the agreements through the cheapening of imports and the easier entry of farm products into outside markets—including that of the United States.

This is the constructive way to deal with the dollar problem on a permanent basis, as well as to secure for the Dominion the general benefits made available by the new agreements. Production and more production are called for if these objects are to be attained.

Where From Here?

Russia blocked the proposal to treat Germany as a unit. The United States, Britain and France are therefore expected to proceed to merge their occupation zones and establish a West German state, self-governing and self-dependent, but debarred from rearming.

The partition of Germany is thus, the prospective outcome of the deadlock in the Big Four conference.

This will leave Russia in sole control, as it has been for two years, of the rich agricultural and still richer industrial resources of east Germany, including the mines and factories of Silesia, second only to those of the Rhineland as the power-house of German industry in peace and war. That apparently was what Molotov was aiming at from the outset.

The broad effect will be to keep the Oder line the western boundary of Soviet authority, as it is now, and, in eastern Germany to all intents and purposes Russian territory, for an indefinite time. How long a time only the unpredictable future—particularly unpredictable in this instance—can disclose.

The position is that Russian troops stand where they stood when the fighting stopped; and will continue to stand there because the effort to re-establish Germany as a national unit was blocked. Communist propaganda will be poured into the ears of the populace of the occupied area with even intensified energy. Communist organizing agents will be busier than they have been.

Whether the commanding effort will succeed cannot be known in advance. That it will be pushed with all possible energy by all possible means, has to be assumed.

What the situation amounts to is that Molotov has pried off eastern Germany and made it a continuing part of the Russian orbit. That is the effect of his rejection of the unification proposal; whether or not the Democracies proceed to organize a West German state.

This Won't Do

A car-load of immigrants from displaced persons camps in Germany were en route to mining camps in northern Ontario when a couple of Communist agents started to distribute their propaganda. They dropped them off the train.

The reaction was natural and the troublemakers got what they asked for. That others of their kind will busy themselves trying to sow propaganda among new arrivals elsewhere—and everywhere—is to be expected. And that they will get a like reception from the former victims of totalitarian persecution is also probable. People who have been interned and mistreated because of race, creed or political views are not likely to be favorably disposed toward any sort of anti-freedom missionaries.

But the public authorities should not leave it to the deeper immigrants to deal with these promoters of mischief. They should be on the alert everywhere to prevent the emissaries of strife from carrying on their activities among the new-comers. Not because the propagandists may get hurt; but because their operations are a menace to freedom and democracy.

Mr. McNaughton, confirmed my own information that Germany the Communists like all other Europeans are as hungry for true information as they are for bread. They are not afraid to go to jail for what they believe to be right.

Although free speech "all over the world" was an ideal, the Communists are not aiming at it.

There is a little of the Hitlerite speech in many allied countries today as there was under Hitler. The press is reduced to a government propaganda instrument—or where opposition organs are permitted, they are subject to censorship and to "spontaneous" attacks by Communists.

It is not surprising that Germans and other Europeans have become punch-drunk on it. They are susceptible, perhaps, to more talk than Americans, and money is all they are supplied literally with freedom of speech.

Looks Like Meat Is Made of Milk

Ottawa, Dec. 18—(CP)—A food scientist here has developed a meat substitute made from powdered soybean meal, defatted soya bean meal, mung beans, yeast and cracked whole wheat flour.

What it tastes like? You taste it and you can name it. As several food experts tried tentative forks into the meat substitute, some said it tasted like chicken, others said more like sauerkraut than meat.

Meanwhile, their host, James Pearson, Hamilton, Ont., food chemist, said he had thought about calling the product "Fake meat," but Dr. Barnett Suss of the University of Arkansas, who invented the meat substitute, suggested the name. Today was the first time it had been tried on the public.

Canada will be the first nation to market a combination of powdered skim milk, defatted soya bean meal, mung beans, yeast and cracked whole wheat flour.

It will be sold on a weight basis with meat meat in protein and essentials in its vitamins and minerals.

Mr. Pearson said he thought the meat substitute would solve the problems of feeding the hungry in Europe.

And again in these budget-tight days, it might pay to buy a house in the Canadian countryside.
